

Overcoming a Low GPA in the MBA Application Process

With a low GPA, MBA program applications can seem daunting.
Learn what you can do to get into business school with a 2.9 GPA or below.

Submit strong GMAT/GRE scores.

Submit strong letters of recommendation.

Demonstrate your commitment to succeeding in the program through compelling essays.

Enroll in community college courses (and work hard in them!) to develop a secondary transcript.

Ace the interview.

Shape your online presence.

Highlight significant work experience and qualifications on your resume.

Raymond A. Mason
School of Business
WILLIAM & MARY